

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has stopped all solicitor calls at home.

Indiana's law has been very effective(e.g., "I used to receive on an average 5 to 6 calls per week, now I receive none").

From what I understand, any federal law would cancel Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections and if that is the case we don't want a Federal law. The Indiana's Telephone Privacy law works just fine.